

"What's wild is that nothing has changed. She started a riot at the border and I see my friends and family humiliated in all kinds of ways. I feel that anger. I want to riot. But I can't. I feel like I can't resist because then I'd get in the kind of trouble that would get my family in trouble. I don't think I could be the kind of person brave enough to start all that. But I don't know, if I had to be going through that just to get to work, maybe I'd join in too once things were started."

-Gabi

El Paso, TX